Art, tradition, and sporting thrills await visitors to the city

As Macao basks in warmer temperatures, the city invites visitors to immerse themselves in some cool arts and culture. The 34th Macao Arts Festival (May 3rd - Jun 7th) promises audiences 'Wondrous Encounters', via captivating local and international programming. May also comes alive with Chinese folk festivals, including the Feast of the Drunken Dragon (May 15th), A-Ma Festival (May 1st-3rd) and Tam Kong Festival (May 14th-18th). The Procession of Our Lady of Fátima (May 13th), a Catholic religious celebration with its roots in Portugal, symbolises the East-West cultural fusion found throughout Macao. In the sporting realm, there is the highly-anticipated return of the Macao round of the FIVB Women's Volleyball Nations League (May 28th - Jun 2nd). Other hot draws for May include pop concerts such as Melco Style's Residency Concert Series: Leon Lai STAGE ON 8 2024 (May 1st, 4th, 11th-12th and 18th-19th) and WU BAI AND CHINA BLUE ROCK STAR 2024 World Tour in Macau (May 11th-12th).

Feast of the Drunken Dragon

The Feast of the Drunken Dragon is a unique folk festival celebrated by Macao's fishing-sector workers. The event is on China's National List of Intangible Cultural Heritage Representative Items, and is part of Macao's List of Intangible Cultural Heritage. It takes place annually on the eighth day of the Chinese lunar calendar's fourth month (this year on May 15th). Centrepiece of the celebrations is the Drunken Dragon and Lion Dance Parade, commencing at Senado Square, following a blessing ceremony. It then proceeds through several locations, including the Inner Harbour Ferry Terminal, the Red Market, Iao Hon Market, and A-Ma Temple. The Drunken Dragon dance is traditionally performed by men who dance while simultaneously spraying rice wine from their mouths and carrying effigies of dragons carved head to tail from wood. Another highlight of the festival is the distribution of "longevity rice", symbolising good fortune and health. For more information, please contact the organiser.

Procession of Our Lady of Fátima

MAY 13TH

The Procession of Our Lady of Fátima is a Catholic commemoration of the apparitions of the Virgin Mary in Fátima, Portugal, reported in 1917. The first Macao procession was 12 years later, in 1929. The event, held annually on May 13th, is now part of the city's List of Intangible Cultural Heritage. The procession starts from St. Dominic's Church and journeys to Our Lady of Penha Chapel set on a hill overlooking Macao peninsula. The procession features two young girls and a boy in Portuguese traditional costume, representing the three sheep-tending children who reported witnessing the appearances of the Virgin Mary in Fátima.

Tam Kong Festival

MAY 14TH-18TH

The sea deity Tam Kong is revered in Taoism, particularly among fishermen in southern China, including Macao. Tam Kong Temple in Coloane is the sole local site specially dedicated to such veneration. The annual Tam Kong Festival – included in Macao's official Inventory of Intangible Cultural Heritage – is observed on the eighth day of the Chinese lunar calendar's fourth month (this year on May 15th). A temporary stage made of bamboo is commonly erected to host Cantonese opera performances. The festivities also feature a parade and a beer carnival.

USEFUL INFORMATION

Promoting a 'Green' Macao

Since the beginning of this year, the importation of non-biodegradable, single-use plastic plates and glasses, as well as disposable polystyrene-foam trays for food items, has been prohibited. This supplements bans on the importation of disposable polystyrene-foam tableware (including food boxes, bowls, cups, and plates), as well as of non-biodegradable, single-use plastic cutlery, straws, and drink stirrers. Also, as a measure to reduce waste and protect the environment, shoppers requiring a plastic bag for their purchases are subject to a surcharge of MOP1.

“Wandering in the Scenes” - Feature Exhibition of Macao's Changing Landscapes on the Silver Screen

Since the 1950s, movie crews from around the world have been drawn to Macao for filmmaking. During the golden era of Hong Kong cinema in the 1980s, various locations in Macao gained popularity as filming sites. From the 2000s onwards, Macao filmmakers present a different perspective of the city from that offered by crews from elsewhere. This exhibition offers an opportunity to rediscover various Macao locations through selected clips of films shot in these places, supplemented by present-day images in the same vicinity.

“Discover the Hall of Mental Cultivation” Digital Experience Exhibition

The Hall of Mental Cultivation, also referred to as Yangxin Dian, is “relocating” to Macao in a virtual format, with the aid of advanced digital technology. Located in the Forbidden City complex in Beijing, the actual building served as a workplace and residence for a total of eight emperors during the Qing Dynasty (1644-1911). This digital showcase recreates in detail the architectural splendour of the hall. Visitors also have access to interactive and multimedia exhibits concerning items associated with court life, such as ceramics, jade ware, and carved lacquer items. In addition, the digital technology employed helps visitors learn more about clothing worn by emperors and culinary traditions observed at court.

COMING IN JUNE...

Next month marks the onset of summer in Macao, a time brimming with activities spanning culture, entertainment, and sports. One of the highlights is the 2024 SJM Macao International Dragon Boat Races (Jun 8th-10th), bringing to Nam Van Lake dozens of local and international teams to face off in a festive setting. The month-long 34th Macao Arts Festival (until Jun 7th) still has lots to offer. That includes the festival’s closing programme, “Sino-Portuguese Concert”, featuring Portuguese band Capitão Fausto and Mandopop singer David Huang.

In the spiritual realm, the Procession of St. Anthony (Jun 15th) pays homage to one of the Catholic saints most venerated in Macao, with the annual event attracting a significant number of devotees. Closer to the end of the month, the Feast of Na Tcha (Jun 23rd) continues what is one of the city’s most distinctive cultural traditions, featuring several religious rituals and folk activities dedicated to Na Tcha, who is often believed to be the patron deity of children. Whether in sports, arts, or traditional events, June has a wealth of cultural and leisure activities to offer.
